You are about to purchase a product that is not simple and may be difficult to understand.

What is this product?

Type

You invest into a debt obligation of the category Investment Product (Worst-of Note).

Objectives

The aim of this product is to obtain the highest possible yield by assuming the equity risk and bond risk. The product has a fixed interest rate and a fixed maturity. The redemption will depend on the performance of the underlyings. Interest is paid independent of the performance of the underlyings. Apart from any payouts provided for in the product terms and conditions, there is no entitlement to other current return (e.g. dividends from the underlying instruments). On basis of the previously determined conditions, you take the risk of losing part or all of your invested capital.

At maturity, the product will be redeemed at the maximum redemption rate if the closing price of all underlyings remains above the barrier during the observation period. If the closing price of one underlying reaches or falls below the barrier during the observation period and the closing price of all underlyings exceeds the strike price at the valuation date, the product will be redeemed at the maximum redemption rate at maturity. However, if the closing price of at least one underlying is below the strike price at the valuation date, the product will be redeemed at maturity by delivering shares of the underlying with the worst performance ("worst-of"). The number of delivered shares is equal to the result of dividing the principal amount by the strike price. As the underlying is quoted in a currency different from the currency of the product, the strike price will be converted into the currency of the product at the relevant exchange rate on the valuation date, thereby the product is currency hedged ("quanto"). Fractions of shares will not be delivered; a cash settlement amount will be paid instead. The value of the delivered shares will generally be lower than the principal amount.

The issuer is entitled to terminate the product with immediate effect, if an extraordinary event occurs. Examples of extraordinary events include the delisting or loss of the underlying, changes in legislation, tax events and the discontinuation of the issuer's ability to carry out the necessary hedging transactions. In this case, the redemption amount (fair market price) may possibly be significantly below the purchase price. You also bear the risk that the product will be called in at a time unfavourable to you, and you may only be able to reinvest the redemption amount on less favourable terms.

What are the risks and what could I get in return?

Risk Indicator

The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets or because we are not able to pay you.

We have classified this product as 6 out of 7, which is the second-highest risk class.

This rates the potential losses from future performance at a high level, and poor market conditions are very unlikely to impact our capacity to pay you.

Be aware of currency risk. If the currency of the product is different from the currency of the country in which you live, you will receive payments in a different currency, so the final return you will get will depend on the exchange rate between the two currencies. This risk is not considered in the indicator shown above.

This product does not include any protection from future market performance so you could lose some or all of your investment. If we are not able to pay you what is owed, you could lose your entire investment.

Performance scenarios

Market developments in the future cannot be accurately predicted. The scenarios shown are only an indication of some of the possible outcomes based on recent returns. Actual returns could be lower.

This table shows the money you could get back over the recommended holding period assuming that you invest 10,000 EUR.

The scenarios shown illustrate how your investment could perform. You can compare them with the scenarios of other products. In general, the scenarios show the average return per year. If the recommended holding period is less than one year, the scenarios show the percentage return over the recommended holding period. Therefore, the comparability might be limited.

The scenarios presented are an estimate of future performance based on evidence from the past on how the value of this investment varies, and are not an exact indicator. What you get will vary depending on how the market performs and how long you keep the product.

The stress scenario shows what you might get back in extreme market circumstances, and it does not take into account the situation where we are not able to pay you.

The figures shown include all the costs of the product itself, but may not include all the costs that you pay to your advisor or distributor. The figures do not take into account your personal tax situation, which may also affect how much you get back.

What happens if Erste Group Bank AG is unable to pay out?

This product is not covered by any deposit guarantee scheme. A total loss of your invested capital is possible.

What are the costs?

The Reduction in Yield (RIY) shows what impact the total costs you pay will have on the investment return you might get. The total costs take into account one-off, ongoing and incidental costs.

The amounts shown here are the cumulative costs of the product itself, for one holding period. They include potential early exit penalties. The figures assume you invest 10,000 EUR. The figures are estimates and may change in the future.
